Plot:

Our story begins when Rocky the Minotaur asks Brontes the Phoenix out on a date. They go out on their first date for some ice cream. They're having fun until they realize they are both going to compete against each other in the Triolympic Games - a contest hosted by the local TV studio. Both of them really want to win the prize: a trip to California to meet with celebrities at a waterpark. They leave the date to immediately start training.

The two of them start training harder than ever and Brontes breaks his wing! He tries to fix it with his healing powers but he can't do it. He asks his Papi - a doctor - for help, but this injury is different than anything he's seen before. He tells the Phoenix he needs to journey to find the healer bird, Zenith.

At the climax The Phoenix has to use his skills to find the healer, like speaking different languages to find where she is. He whistles an original song, written by our ensemble, to get help from his friends. In a movement sequence, his friends fly all around looking for Zenith. One of his bird friends sees that Zenith is at the Lion's Lair. Brontes has to face his fear of shadows at the Lion's Lair and asks the Minotaur for help to get inside. Brontes meets Zenith, the Phoenix Queen and she teaches him how to heal his wing.

At the end, the two of them get to compete against each other at the Triolympic games, which is a test of strength, speed and agility, which the audience witnesses in a group movement piece. With his fixed wing, Brontes wins the test of speed by flying really fast. Rocky wins the test of strength because he is very strong. Finally, Brontes does an amazing ice skating routine, but surprisingly, Rocky's gymnastics routine is even better and he wins the competition! Rocky sees that Brontes is really sad, but he realizes he gets to bring someone on his trip with him. He invites Brontes and he says yes! The two of them head out on their trip to California to hang out at the water park and meet some celebrities.
